Life Care Planning and Reviews

“Since 1981 I have focused my career on helping others move forward with their lives after an injury or disability. I take genuine interest in their personal story and situation, how they view their world, and listen compassionately without judgment. My goal is to arrive at an objective assessment that is realistic, and practical for everyone. In preparing reports for both defense and plaintiff, I have earned a reputation for fair, objective and defensible evaluations.

On the personal side, I love to cook and truly one of the best ways that I relax is to have family and friends over for dinner. My cultural origin and the fact that my parents owned a restaurant introduced me to the culinary arts at an early age.”
