“It’s very motivational for me to help provide vocational direction for an injured person.

Inspired by my sister, who has a complicated disability, I refocused my career to better understand disabilities relative to life and living. I listen to people’s fears, learn about other experiences in their life, reference evidence from other healthcare professionals in their case, and together we develop realistic options for the future. Our goal is to provide a report that is thorough, realistic, backed by evidence and is defensible.

On the personal side, my dream vacation would be traveling to Bora Bora.

Those over-the-water villas are calling out to me!”
